A message from the chair

Mark Chalmers FAusIMM
Energy Fuels Resources
URANIUM 2019 Conference Chair

It is time to get excited about the 2019 AusIMM International Uranium conference to be held on 4 – 5 June 2019 in Adelaide, South Australia. As we enter our 14 consecutive year of this flagship annual event there has never been a more appropriate theme than “U and the Future” for this year’s event.

The organising committee is energised with the very positive signs of a uranium sector turnaround as demand continues to grow and while near term production and inventories begin to dwindle.

If you are working in, and or, are interested in learning more about all things uranium this is the most important uranium conference of the year. The program this year will be tailored around all professionals interested in the space from technical and the latest in technology but also will have an increased emphasis on the uranium market and the nuclear fuels cycle as a whole.

Moreover, on top of this, there is no better event to mingle and meet some of the legends of the sector who have decades of experience to share and mentor those newer to the industry.

So save the date, present a paper, participate as a sponsor or just attend and absorb the proceedings from this flagship Uranium conference. It promises to be an outstanding few days.

Target Audience

This conference will attract both local and international mining professionals from the following fields:

CEOs, directors, executives, general managers: Geologists, metallurgists, geotechnical and mining engineers: Environmental scientists: Production, project and operations engineers and managers: Engineering consultants: Equipment manufacturers: Service providers: Government regulatory officials: Academics.

Market Reach

Uranium 2019 will undertake an extensive marketing, promotional and media campaign to promote the conference ensuring the success of the event and giving you the opportunity to access a highly targeted and influential audience.

Online

Uranium 2019 will have its own dedicated website providing all the latest information on the conference, call for abstracts, online registration, plus space dedicated to Uranium 2019 sponsors. Uranium 2019 updates and alerts are emailed to more than 10 000 AusIMM members and the greater minerals community.

Social Media

Uranium 2019 will be promoted through social media platforms including Twitter and LinkedIn.

Editorial and Advertising

As well as the AusIMM's own print and digital publications, Uranium 2019 will be promoted via press releases, in the print media and articles in related industry journals, publications and websites.

Conference Themes

The conference will give presenters the chance to exchange information on topics such as, but not exclusive to:

- Innovative exploration, mining and remediation
- New more positive era for our market? Innovative marketing, communication, public engagement, regulatory action
- Uranium industry and the future/how the industry has changed
- Increasingly innovative uses of radioisotopes derived from uranium in research reactors including nuclear medicine and industrial applications
- Understanding the investment cases – risks and rewards

Key Dates

Call for abstracts closes	3 February 2019
Notification to authors of abstract acceptance	24 March 2019
Final abstract submission	7 April 2019
Conference dates	4-5 June 2019
